

After a turbulent year in the global economy, which professionals are most in demand?

Robert Walters recently released results of its survey results for salaries in Singapore in 2010.

The key findings are:

- As a result of retrenchments in finance, product control and operations in 2009, many organisations are operating with skeleton staff. The outlook for 2010 is for an increase in the demand for professionals with project and commodity experience.
- Sectors most affected by the financial crisis were automotive, semiconductors, aviation, industrial, hospitality, travel and telecoms. Pharma, healthcare, FMCG, IT and retail were more resilient.
- The third quarter of 2009 saw job adverts increase by 8.8%. Most talent shortages are in sales, procurement, tax, financial planning & analysis and internal audit.

For the complete survey results with project salary ranges: http://www.robertwalters.com.sg/re/sources/salariesurvey2010/Singapore_Salary_Survey_2010.pdf

Singapore Salary Outlook 2010 - Mostly Flat

Wednesday, 10 February 2010 06:30 - Last Updated Wednesday, 21 July 2010 01:25
